

STREET FOOD

.EU.COM

Street Food is ready to go!

Street food - the provision of ready-to-eat foods/beverages sold and prepared in public - is enjoying a period of phenomenal growth across Europe and more and more entrepreneurs are getting in on the action.

However, running a successful street food business is not always easy and while there is an abundance of training for those working in the Food & Beverage industry, very little of this is focussed on the unique skills required for success in the street food sector.

That's why we created StreetFood.eu.com: to provide the practical advice, tools and the confidence for entrepreneurs to manage street food businesses effectively and profitably.

Thanks to a unique collaboration between the Vocational Education and Food sectors in five European countries, we're producing a brand new online learning course available in multilingual format for use across Europe.

Welcome!

StreetFood: Opportunities for Entrepreneurship is an international project to offer improved training for street vendors and budding entrepreneurs, especially young people, immigrants and those from agricultural backgrounds. Find out more

Europe's best Street Food

Street food is emerging from the shadow of informality to become one of the most vibrant and fast growing sectors. If you're looking for inspiration, or just curious as to what exactly is Street Food, this article sums up the best in Europe.

Opportunities for Street Food for inclusion and employment Increasing evidence reveals that street food plays a key role in promoting cultural diversity, reviving urban areas and crucially, providing new employment opportunities for young entrepreneurs, be they from agricultural or immigrant backgrounds. Read more about the new role of small food businesses here.

Connect with us on Facebook